INTRODUCTION

Sometimes we may find the stickers on our cars unwanted. In this case, we would like to remove the stickers without damaging our beautiful car paint. In this guide, I will show you how to remove stickers from a car properly.

TOOLS:

Hair Dryer (1)

Plastic Cards (1)

Razor Blade (1)

Microfiber Cleaning Cloths (1)

Cleaning Spray (1)

Step 1 — How to Remove Stickers From a Car

- First of all, find the area where the sticker is. In my case, it is on the car body near the fuel tank.

Step 2

- Spray the area with some soap water or with cleaning sprays.

Step 3

- Next, wipe the area thoroughly with a microfiber cleaning cloth.

Step 4

- Turn on the hairdryer and put it in its hot setting.
- Start heating the sticker from a few inches away. Try to heat the sticker from the center outward.
- ① This will soften the adhesive under the sticker and make the following steps much easier.

Step 5

- Use a plastic card and try to scrape the sticker from the edges.
- ① A plastic card can help you remove your unwanted stickers without damaging the paint.
- If it doesn't work, try to repeat step 4 and then try again.
- ① If you are working on a glass surface, use a razor blade instead of a plastic card! It may seem too much for the glass, but the glass is hard enough to use a razor blade on.

⚠ Be careful when using a razor blade!

Step 6

- Finally, if there is any residue, heat the residue with the hairdryer and scrape it off with a plastic card or razor blade (depending on where the sticker is).
- After removing all stickers and residue, use some detailing spray or cleaning spray to clean the area again and you are all set!

After these steps, you should have a clean surface without any residues!
